Dear Students

Many of you have asked about our summer course offerings. At present there are a number of courses listed in our timetable, including a range of delivery modes. The summer term includes three sessions: the full 12-week session (the Y session: May 4 to Aug. 6 with exams Aug. 11-25) and two separate 6-week sessions (the F session: May 4 to June 15 with exams June 16-20 and the S session: June 22 to Aug. 6 with exams Aug. 11-25).

Since we are not sure in-person offerings will be possible in May we are reviewing our current offerings. We are exploring additional fully online (LEC99) courses and courses that provide an online lecture section (LEC60). We are also exploring additional courses that don't require in-person meetings, such as on-line teaching, in all three sessions (Y, F and S). Our academic departments are developing these offerings this week. On Thursday March 26 2020 we anticipate announcing these additional course offerings. Course enrolment will begin as planned for UTSC degree students on Wednesday April 1. A further announcement about the start of the Y and F sessions will be made later in April.

These are stressful and uncertain times for students; UTSC is endeavoring to provide as wide a range of course options as possible to allow you to continue your studies.

Sincerely,

Mark A. Schmuckler
