Required Books

American Psychological Association. (1994). Publication manual (4th ed.).
Washington, DC: Author.

Gelfand, H., & Walker, C.J. (1990). Mastering APA Style. Washington, DC:
American Psychological Association.

Stanovich, K. (1996). How to think straight about psychology (4th ed.). New York: HarperCollins.

Objectives

The course develops practical and professional skills based on current standard discourse in the field of psychology. The aim is to improve the student's ability (a) to think scientifically, (b) to find, analyze, and organize information, and (c) to communicate clearly, critically, and effectively within the discipline.

Prerequisites

The course is intended for students enrolled in the Psychology Specialist Programme, for which it is required. It should be taken following completion of PSY B01, PSY B07 and PSY C08, and it is recommended that it be taken in the third year because the skills acquired are relevant to upper level courses and to the thesis.

Assignments and Evaluation

APA Style: Students will work towards the mastery of APA Style by doing the exercises and practice test in Mastering APA Style. Credit earned for the Term Paper Mastery Test and for the Research Report Mastery Test will depend on your highest score on the two writings of the test:

Items correct	Score
90% or more	10/10
80-89%	7/10
75-80%	4/10
<75%	0/10

Major Writing Assignment: You will write a review article of 10-12 pages on a topic that must be approved by your tutorial leader early in the course. You will have to do library research for this piece of work, involving using materials from libraries on the St. George campus. Training sessions in carrying out library research will be provided during class hours. Content and style will be equally weighted in the evaluation.

A "topic" outline of the review article is to be submitted to your tutorial leader no later than 5 November.

A draft of the review article is to be submitted to your tutorial leader no later than 17 November. The draft should be at least 6-8 pages long.

The final report is due on 3 December.

Classroom Presentations: You will give two presentations: (a) an oral summary of an article in the literature (20/27 October/3November) and (b) an oral summary of your review article (24 November/1December). The dates on which you will present will be scheduled by your tutorial leader.

Final Examination: The two-hour examination will be scheduled during the final exam period. It will contain both multiple choice and essay questions on the text by Stanovich. Policy on Extensions and Lateness Short Writing Assignments, Outline, Draft. Short extensions may be granted for good reason, such as illness, conflict of due dates with assignments for other courses, etc., but normally not more than a couple of times for a given student. Unless an extension has been negotiated before the time that the assignment is due, a late penalty of 1 point per day off the maximum weighted value of the assignment will apply. In no case will a short writing assignment be accepted after those of other students have been returned.

Mastery Tests. Make-ups will be provided only in the case of properly documented illness. In the case of the second writing of the Research Report Mastery Test, a make-up opportunity will be available only if there is a successful petition for a deferred examination.

Classroom Presentations. In the case of properly documented illness, the presentation will be rescheduled if class time permits.

Review Article. A short extension may be granted for good reason. Unless an extension has been negotiated before the time that the assignment is due, a late penalty of 4 points per day off the maximum weighted value of the assignment will apply.
