Communication with the Instructor and TA: Complex questions are typically easier to answer face-to-face, rather than via e-mail. In addition to the instructor, the TA is a great resource and will be able to provide you with answers to many of your questions. The TA works in close contact with the instructor and will refer matters if they cannot resolve them for you. We take your questions very seriously and want to facilitate learning. We always try to get back to you as soon as we can. This can be challenging due to the size of the class, especially around exam times. So please make sure to allow at least 48 hours for us to reply, particularly just prior to exams when student requests tend to be high. Questions that have already been answered in the course syllabus, in lecture slides, or on Blackboard will not receive a response.

 Please note: Course announcements will be made through Blackboard. Students are responsible for monitoring the course website regularly for important announcements and updates. **

Prerequisites: PSYA01H & PSYA02H

Exclusion: PSY230H

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course is designed to give a broad introduction to the theory and research in the scientific study of personality psychology. This course is organized around six domains of personality functioning – dispositional, biological, intrapsychic, cognitive/ experiential, socio-cultural, and adjustment, and examines the theories and research within the context of each of the domains.

COURSE FORMAT: The format of this course is primarily lectures accompanied by active, in-class discussions and activities (wherever possible) that utilize various multimedia platforms (including video clips, movies, thought-provoking images, etc.). A preliminary set of lecture slides/notes will be posted on the website prior to each lecture. The slides are intended as visual aids to complement the lecture. It is recommended that you take your own notes in class, using the slides as an outline.

Textbook: Larsen, R. J., & Buss, D. M. (2017). Personality psychology: Domains of knowledge about human nature (6th ed.). New York: McGraw-Hill.

Note about using older editions: It is not recommended that you use older editions of the textbook. Although much of the material is the same, you may be tested on more recent research findings in the field.

Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

- Identify the goals of personality psychology.
- Review research and assessment methods in personality psychology.
- Compare and contrast diverse theoretical perspectives on personality.
- Discuss the associations between personality and psychological and social functioning.

Course Requirements: Students will be given 2 equally weighted exams, which will consist of multiple choice questions. Please bring an HB pencil and an eraser to each exam to allow for electronic scoring of the multiple-choice questions.

Students have the option of completing Connect weekly assignments. Connect course is an online learning resource, designed by the textbook publisher, which is intended to improve learning by increasing students' effort and engagement. If students opt-in and participate in Connect course weekly assignments, these assignments will account for 6% of your final grade, and each exam will be account for 47% of your final grade.

Examinations are non-cumulative. The exams will cover both lecture and textbook material. The purpose of the lecture is to amplify, explain, and expand upon the textbook material. Although there will be overlap between the lectures and the textbook, there will also be material that will be covered in the lectures that is not part of the textbook. Furthermore, some material from the textbook will not be discussed in class. This means that to be successful in this course you must carefully read the text and attend the lectures.

Examinations will be given on published dates only. Exceptions will be made in the case of medical problems, in which case a doctor's note is required. Exceptions will also be made for students who have religious obligations that conflict with an exam date. If you are unable to write an exam due to medical problems, please contact me before the exam or within 24 hours after the exam. Students who do not contact me within 24 hours after the exam will be assigned a grade of "0" on the exam.

Final Exam Policies & Procedures. The scheduling of final exams and the granting of petitions to defer final exams are matters that fall entirely within the jurisdiction of the Registrar's Office. If you have any concerns relating to your final exam attendance, please contact the Registrar.

Please note that there are NO opportunities for extra credit to improve your grade at any time during this course or once the course is over.

Academic Integrity:

Academic integrity is essential to the pursuit of learning and scholarship in a university, and to ensuring that a degree from the University of Toronto is a strong signal of each student's individual academic achievement. As a result, the University treats cases of cheating and plagiarism very seriously. The University of Toronto's Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters (<http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/policies/behaveac.htm>) outlines the behaviours that constitute academic dishonesty and the processes for addressing academic offences. Potential offences include, but are not limited to:

In papers and assignments:

- Using someone else's ideas or words without appropriate acknowledgement.
- Submitting your own work in more than one course without the permission of the instructor.
- Making up sources or facts.
- Obtaining or providing unauthorized assistance on any assignment.

On tests and exams:

- Using or possessing unauthorized aids.
- Looking at someone else's answers during an exam or test.
- Misrepresenting your identity

In academic work:

- Falsifying institutional documents or grades.
- Falsifying or altering any documentation required by the University, including (but not limited to) doctor's notes.

All suspected cases of academic dishonesty will be investigated following procedures outlined in the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters. If you have questions or concerns about what constitutes appropriate academic behaviour or appropriate research and citation methods, you are expected to seek out additional information on academic integrity from your instructor or from other institutional resources (see <http://www.utoronto.ca/academicintegrity/>).
